To whom it may concern,

RE: Reference for Hannah Stitfall

I am delighted to provide a reference for Hannah Stitfall who volunteered at the Wildscreen Festival, 10-14 October 2016, in Bristol.

Wildscreen is the world's leading international festival celebrating and advancing storytelling about the natural world. The Festival has a team of volunteers to help deliver the event and Hannah was one of fifty such volunteers, from over 200 applicants. Hannah generously gave up her time and worked hard to help build a fantastic atmosphere and put on a very well-received event.

Hannah carried out a number of roles during the week including assisting at the Virtual Reality showcase, working on the delegate Registration Desk, assisting with evening events and hosting a Q&A session. At the Virtual Reality showcase Hannah worked with exhibitors to ensure delegates were able to experience VR event. Hannah dealt with everyone in a polite, friendly, knowledgeable and helpful manner, ensuring delegates had a fantastic Virtual Reality experience. Hannah demonstrated a real enthusiasm and knowledge for the world of wildlife film making and a dedication to the event by hosting a Q&A session with a film maker after a screening. Hannah proved to be a great host, bringing her infectious enthusiasm and energy to the event. Hannah generously gave up her time and worked hard to help build a fantastic atmosphere and put on a very well-received event.

It was a pleasure to have Hannah as a volunteer at the Wildscreen Festival. She completed all of her shifts, proving herself to be a responsible, reliable and supportive member of the team. The Wildscreen Festival benefitted hugely from Hannah's involvement. We wish her every success in the future.

Best wishes,

Abi Edgar
