Profile

I am a keen and hard working individual, with a passion for filmmaking of all kinds, and a desire to progress my learning and develop new skills at every possible avenue. I would consider myself an aspiring producer within the industry, with my interest currently set on gaining valuable experience working within a team focused around specialist factual and natural history programmes. I have developed my skills and learning to arc along the interest of wildlife and adventure with my eyes now set on completing a BBC affiliated Masters degree in Wildlife filmmaking, with the intention of beginning my career thereafter.
